

Maharam and PIN-UP Celebrate The New Establishment

Maharam and PIN-UP honor the arrival of three new curators at New York's most significant architecture and design institutions with an event at the Maharam Design Studio on May 18 for New York Design Week.

Recognizing the value of design and its prominent role in shaping the current cultural landscape, Maharam will host a conversation featuring Alexandra Cunningham Cameron, Curator of Contemporary Design at the Cooper Hewitt Smithsonian Design Museum, José Esparza Chong Cuy, Executive Director and Chief Curator of Storefront for Art and Architecture, and V. Mitch McEwen, Curator of IdeasCity, an initiative of the New Museum. In a rare moment of coordination, each was appointed to these prominent posts within the past year, ushering a new era of thought leadership at some of New York's most significant cultural institutions. A panel discussion moderated by founding editor of PIN-UP Felix Burrichter will invite this diverse group of practitioners to share their perspectives on architecture and design followed by a brunch reception designed by New York-based conceptual artist Laila Gohar.

The event coincides with the launch of the Spring/Summer 2019 issue of PIN-UP, which first identified the significance of this institutional shift with a series of interviews with Chong Cuy, Cunningham Cameron, and McEwen as part of a feature titled "The New Establishment" written by Drew Zeiba.
