

Maharam Introduces Taut Linen, Linen Basket, and Wide Corduroy

Arriving this September, Taut Linen, Linen Basket, and Wide Corduroy are three residential textiles that expand the Maharam Design Studio's focus on unembellished, natural materials.

Taut Linen is a fine, unadorned texture woven in Belgium by a resource that creates linens for artist's canvases. A tight plain weave emphasizes the fiber's refinement and slight irregularity. Light enough for window covering and strong enough for upholstery application, the delicate palette pushes beyond the natural range of linen into shades of rose, dove, and sage.

In Linen Basket, weighty yarns form a sturdy yet organically varied basket weave. A mineral palette of ivory, steel, silver, indigo, and flax underscores the understated luxury of linen, while playing up its lustrous dimensionality.

Wide Corduroy is a modern interpretation of a classic cotton corduroy. Woven in Italy by a hundred-year-old, family-owned resource, this velvet features wales of amplified scale that can be perceived as both texture and pattern. Referencing classic corduroy apparel, the palette comprises rich jewel tones, architectural neutrals, and deep pastels.

Maharam offers a comprehensive collection of textiles for commercial and residential interiors.

Additional assets available online:  Photos \(34\)

<https://news.millerknoll.com/2020-07-02-Taut-Linen,-Linen-Basket,-and-Wide-Corduroy>