

Bringing the MillerKnoll Collective Together in San Francisco

Following the opening of MillerKnoll's first combined showroom incorporating Herman Miller, Knoll and collective brand experiences in Dallas, Texas, MillerKnoll is preparing to offer the same co-branded experience to Northern California customers, dealers, and the broader A&D community.

The 10,000 square-foot space at 23 Geary St in San Francisco, which was home to the Herman Miller showroom, will close in early November for renovations to include Herman Miller and Knoll Contract showrooms, as well as a MillerKnoll zone featuring brand and product expressions from Geiger, Muuto, HAY, DWR and NaughtOne. The showroom will reopen in early February.

San Francisco continues to be one of MillerKnoll's strongest U.S. markets and this co-branded space will provide customers and the design community the convenience of visiting a single space to experience the latest in design for home, office and beyond.
