ZEELAND, Mich., June 10, 2024 -- Herman Miller's showroom on floor 2 of 1100 West Fulton Market, has been refreshed to host design professionals and enthusiasts Monday, June 10 through Wednesday, June 12, 2024 during this year's MillerKnoll Design Days celebration.

Guests are invited to immerse themselves in the latest Herman Miller designs—marking the debut of Bay Work Pod; new seating innovations from Studio 7.5, including an updated Mirra 2, enhancements to Setu, and the addition of Zeph Side Chair; recently introduced OE1 Workspace Collection products including OE1 Sit-to-Stand Table and OE1 Powerbox and Power Tray designed by Industrial Facility; and more. Additionally, the brand is highlighting Chadwick Modular Seating, which is celebrating the 50-year anniversary from when it was launched in 1973.

Bay Work Pod is an entirely new ergonomic and aesthetically appealing workspace solution optimized for hybrid work schedules and open floorplans. Available in two sizes, Bay Work Pod is ideal for everything from focused solo work to a video call that puts individuals in their best light. Designed with inclusivity at the forefront, the interior features elements like background color and lighting optimized to flatter all skin tones and clothing choices while on camera. The larger Pro model has a wider doorway and extra interior space, making it easier to maneuver a wheelchair. A low entry threshold and open floor design allow for easy access in and out.

Studio 7.5 and Herman Miller have revisited the design of Mirra 2 to further reduce the carbon footprint by reassessing how every element could be more sustainably made—leaning into material innovations while advancing its well-established suite of performance-enhancing technology. The result is the latest Mirra 2 that's physically light and light on our environment, is comprised of eco-friendly materials, and energizes spaces through a new color palette with color blocking and punctuated application options.

Herman Miller's Fulton Market showroom also features a comprehensive MillerKnoll healthcare display highlighting clinical products and textiles from Herman Miller, Knoll, Knoll Textiles, Maharam, NaughtOne, and Muuto. Exploring over five decades of healthcare research, the exhibition displays product, material and process innovations in flexible casework solutions that are change-ready for client optimization.
